Led 'First Div.' to Old Country Camp; Still With Them

WELCOMES RETURNING HEROES: Thirty-one years a Canadian soldier, (C.E.F., militia, C.A.S.F. and reserve), Seymour Tyler, Canadian Pacific Railway sleeping car porter, is unofficial greeter to thousands of the fighting men and women being rushed home now on the sleepers and diners taken out of ordinary service (above). A high point in his World War II experience was leading the First Division to trains from shipside at Greenock, Scotland, in December of 1939 as band sergeant of the Carleton and York Regiment bugle band. His most prized possession is a silver bugle, gift of Carleton and York warrant and non-commissioned officers, about which the King questioned him at Aldershot in 1940 (inset).

Wainwright's Rehabilitation Committee Now in Full Swing

Mr. Gordon Graham and Mr. Percy Armishaw, were in the city last week, attending the convention of Rehabilitation Committees for the northern half of the prov. and they have arrived back full of steam, and are anxious to get our local committee operating in full stride.

When the Star interviewed both men, they had some interesting things to tell, about the outlined committee that is planned for Wainwright. However the one major thing that they stressed is the fact that, this is not a two man committee by any means, and to make a successful venture out of this, it will take everybody with their shoulder to the wheel, pushing with all their might.

On Thursday, August 9th, it is hoped that Capt. J. Harper Prowse, M.P., and Lieut. Commander Newson, R.C.N.V.R., will be in town to address a mass public meeting that will be held in the town hall.

This is an event that everyone should attend. It does not make any difference whether it concerns you directly, because indirectly, the problem of rehabilitating our servicemen is a responsibility that lies with each and everyone of us.

Synopsis of what transpired at Edmonton will no doubt be given in report form at this meeting, and it will be to the interest of everyone to be in attendance.

It was pointed out by Mr. Armishaw, that the Dominion government has set up this scheme of rehabilitation, and it is up to the local citizenry, in every community, to make sure that it works. Mr. Graham, pointed out that it will be a very rough slap in the face for the boys that will be coming home shortly, if the home folks don't take the time and trouble to see that they are rehabilitated properly.

The task of rehabilitating more than 900,000 men and women who wear or have worn the uniform, is the greatest Canada has ever faced and the greatest opportunity for service that Canadians have ever had.

It will mean that it will be a big wheel and every citizen a cog, so when you might be asked in any way to help, don't take the attitude of let George do it, because there are not enough Georges to go around.

Plan now to attend any meeting that is to be held in connection with Re-Establishing our servicemen, and be sure to attend the meeting that is to be held next Thursday, August 8th.

Farms for Veterans

There may have been a time when farming was a haphazard sort of business, operated by rule-of-thumb but that's certainly not the case in 1945. And it is certainly not the case when it comes to the Veteran's Land Act. This important part of the machinery of rehabilitation is functioning at the present time, and will continue to function, with the clear purpose of seeing that the men who elect to turn from war to agriculture are the men who can make a success of it.

There was criticism voiced at the way this aspect was handled after the last war. This disappointment arose from the haste in establishing a large number of veterans on the land within 18 months of the end of the war. In this period, 19,000 men were placed on the land. It was also stated that some of the veterans of 1914-18 got land that was poorly suited to agriculture. And there was also the fact that men were placed on the land who were temperamentally unsuited to the life. You have to have an aptitude for farming, just as you have to have an aptitude for being a doctor, a lawyer or a bookkeeper. You have to have the knack and the feel for it.

Another advantage of the present land settlement staff. This was not the case after the last war.

Re-establishment of the veteran of this war is putting stress on the angle of vocational guidance. Look before you leap is the advice given by counsellors when the man discusses the problem of farming with them.

They tell him what he'll be up against, they find out whether he's really going to like the life, and whether his wife will like the life. The advantages and the disadvantages of farm life are underlined, and the veteran is asked to see the picture in its true perspective.

The government will help the veteran to finance land, buildings, stock and equipment up to $6,000. The maximum amount that can be expended for livestock and equipment is $1200. The veteran makes a down payment of 10 per cent of the cost of the land and buildings in instalments which may be extended up to 25 years. The interest on this is 3 1/2 per cent. The government absorbs the balance of the cost which is approximately 24 per cent. In addition if he has completed with the terms of the contract for 10 years the money which he obtained for equipment and livestock becomes an outright grant. After 10 years or after the veteran has paid all his instalments, whichever is the longer period, the veteran is given the deed to the property.

But the government's interest in the veteran goes past the purely financial aspect of the situation. Personnel counselling helps the man to know the type of farming he likes the best—whether it be in wheat fruit, livestock or any of the other phases of agriculture.

There is no intention of extending financial aid to veterans for establishment of land that is suitable for settlement purposes and the administrators of the Act are working in close co-operation with the federal and provincial departments of agriculture and Canadian agricultural schools in pursuance of this policy.

And loneliness that bugbear of land settlement, is also receiving attention. It is the intention of those in charge to see that the veterans settle in communities that are well established and where there is a reasonable standard of social services established.

Use "M" Coupons Meat Rationing

Brown "M" coupons in ration book 5, supplemented by specially designed tokens, will be used for meat purchases when Canada returns to meat rationing, probably early in September, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces.

- Group A—(1 pound a coupon)
- Group B—(1 1/2 pounds a coupon)
- Group C—(2 pounds a coupon)
- Group D—(2 1/2 pounds a coupon)
- Group E—(3 pounds a coupon)

All cooked, canned and fancy meat as well as red meats will be included in the ration, but the following will be exempt from rationing: beef, brain, head, tail, blood, tripe; calf brain, head; pork brain, head, tail, pigstee, spare rib; and lamb brain, head, tail and fries.

Shower for Bride Elect Martin No. 1 Now On Location

On Wednesday evening July 11th Miss Verne Rowe, R.N., a bride-elect of August was entertained at a surprise shower at the home of Misses Doris Johnson and Evelyn Telfer.

An enjoyable social evening was spent after which Mrs. D. Bond and Miss V. Karvonen presented the guest of honor with a dainty pink and white basket of gifts and good wishes for which she suitably thanked those present. Miss Rowe is the District Nurse for the Wainwright Health Unit.

At the close of the evening a tasty lunch was served by the hostesses.

Reduce Sugar To Beekeepers

Beekeepers are the latest class affected by continued need for sugar conservation, according to a Prices Board announcement.

Only beekeepers who produce honey for sale and who have registered with the Ration Administration will get sugar to feed their bees. A maximum of fifteen pounds of sugar per colony may be granted for the fall. No sugar is available for spring feeding so beekeepers are advised to retain sufficient honey from their own production for feeding purposes.

Miss Stella McIntee Bride of Last Week

Blessed Sacrament Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Thursday July 26th, when Miss Stella McIntee youngest daughter of Mrs. M. McIntee and the late Mr. M. McIntee of Greenhills became the bride of Mr. J. W. Watson, son of Mrs. F. S. Watson and the late Mr. F. S. Watson of Smithers, B. C.

The bride given in marriage by her brother Peter, was lovely in a floor length gown of white tulle with a long veil of filmy tulle. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses.

Mrs. Legace attended her sister and was charming in a floor length bouffant gown of white sheer with amber necklace and carried a pink and white carnation bouquet.

Mr. Robt. Legace supported the groom as best man.

Appropriate music for the occasion was supplied by the choir of the church.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Legace to immediate friends and relatives. The dining room was decorated with pink and white carnations and the bride's table was laid with a floor-length Irish linen cloth and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake. Father Elhman proposed the toast to the bride.

Later the young couple left for a honeymoon at the west coast. For travelling the bride chose a mauve dressmaker suit with white accessories.

Photographic lenses for war purposes are tested by Canadian scientists for accuracies up to a millionth of an inch by placing a lens of known spherical accuracy against the one to be tested and then passing a beam of light through them both. "Interference patterns" in the shape of curves and lines show up any flaws in the new lens.

A change of heart will do more to cure a nation's ills than any change of system.

Reconstruction—
Canada's Opportunity

"Are you there where your country needs you, keeping the wheels turning?" This fragment from a patriotic song points the way to the spirit industry needs to make reconstruction a success. But, there are many ways in which our own selfish interests can make the task difficult.

Some will say, "Why don't the bosses give us a square deal? We're just cogs in a wheel—nobody appreciates us."

Others will say, "Go easy, the more we give the men the more they want. Where would they be without our brains and the money we put into the business?"

To build the new world men have died for, all of us, both labour and management will have to meet above our differences, with a greater common objective. We can learn to see the other fellow's point of view on a basis of "what's right, not who's right." To win wars, when we all remember we are Canadians first and foremost, our volume of production is a decisive factor in victory. Everybody works hard and pulls together. To win the peace we need to remember the same thing. We must keep our sights up—look beyond our own borders and see the needs of others. In peace, as in war, leadership of Canadian industry can be the decisive factor in victory. Our fortunate position in the world calls for full responsibility.

Surely this is motive enough to stir our enthusiasm. Industry's true destiny of making the work and wealth of the world available for all, and for the exploitation of none, can grip our minds and muscles. In pioneer days all worked together to fill the daily needs of the community. Lately the battle for the lion's share of the profits has raged so fiercely that we have lost the unselfish spirit of the pioneers. This spirit cannot be bought with dollars—it lies deep in our heart's desire to work for the good of humanity.

Only a new spirit in men can bring a new spirit in industry. As teamwork is pioneered by Canadian industry, so it will start to grow between the nations. International conferences can become, not battles for markets, but an alliance for service. When all plan for everyone to be adequately warmed, fed and clothed, trade will cease to divide the United Nations, and instead will unite the world.

With this spirit in Canada lies our hope of winning the peace, and securing it for ourselves and for our children.

Warn Children of Highway Hazards

Appeal to car drivers to avoid speed and help cut down the number of accidents has been made by the Alberta Motor Association.

The A.M.A. points out that more than 150,000 school children now are on summer holidays. Many will be at play and they will be prone to dart across streets and highways, disregarding the traffic hazards.

Parents are urged to co-operate with motorists in carrying on safety measures by warning their children to be careful, to look and listen before running across the traffic routes. It is contended that if parents will impress this fact on their children, many needless accidents can be averted. While motorists generally are anxious to avoid accidents, much can be done by parents in reminding their children that they also must be on a sharp lookout.

CONTROL PRICES OF NEW RADIOS

Radio manufacturers in Canada have been given the green light to proceed with reconstruction plans but they must bring their models back on the market at 1941 basic period prices.

In making the announcement the Prices Board said that delay in producing new radios for civilian use can be expected as Canada depends on American manufacturers for component parts. Production of civilian radios has not yet been authorized in the United States.

Our Motto
A Home From Home

War-time radio developments will do much to make cross-country flying safer and more practical for private pilots. The whole story cannot be told in many respects a closely guarded war secret.

But if a radar can spot a submarine miles away under water at night it can also prevent a pilot from allowing a plane to run into an obstruction while flying blind in bad weather.

Just as important is what radio can already do for private flying. Small, light compact and inexpensive radio receivers and transmitters enable a pilot to follow a radio beam, or communicate with the nearest airport for weather reports and other information.

And you fellows with radios in your automobile needn't think you have anything on the private flier who takes his girl on a hop into the country. The pilot can also tune his receiver into an ordinary radio station and with directional equipment he can follow the signal into the station.

A lot of people wonder how a radio beam or range works. Well, we haven't space for a technical explanation, and you probably wouldn't give a hang, but in a nutshell the transmitter which sends out the directional signal does it with four different arms.

There have to be four arms, though each of the four can point in almost any direction. Thus the Toronto beam has one arm pointing toward North Bay, another toward Buffalo, another toward London and Windsor and the fourth points off into nothing in particular.

The end of each arm is met by the end of an arm from another station. The arm pointing from Toronto toward North Bay will be met by another arm pointing from North Bay to Toronto, for instance. The same system works out of dozens of other Canadian cities from Sydney, Nova Scotia, to Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton and Vancouver.

The pilot can always tell when he is on the beam, for then he gets a continuous signal. If he gets off is to the right he hears a dot followed by a dash, or if he strays to the left he hears a dash then a dot. A beam will take right in to the airport for which he is headed, though he does need a few hundred feet of visibility to make a safe landing.

WAINWRIGHT, WEDNESDAY

THE HOSPITAL SIDEWALK ???

A great deal of people do and will have to walk to the hospital this winter, and Heaven help them if they have to walk on the road.

For the great majority of people, a car is the handiest thing but for the unfortunate public that haven't possession of a car, and can't obtain one, walking to the hospital, is quite a chore.

There is only one way to get there and that is to walk on the road. Now everybody that has had to do this, this year, knows that it is no pleasant task to walk through a little desert of sand, as well as the beating that your shoes take in the ordeal.

Could it not be possible to have a decent sidewalk built, and alleviate all this nuisance. The Editor feels quite sure that if a sidewalk was built from taxpayers money that there would be very little objection raised, by the local taxpayers.

True there was a side path built a number of years ago, but being of cinders, and through neglect in upkeep, it is hardly recognizable now and is almost beyond recognition.

There are weeds growing to their hearts content, as well as willows and other vegetation growing in up along the side of the road.

It is impossible to walk on this path now, and if efforts were made to clear it, it would help. The fly in the ointment, though, is, it would have to be kept clean, and from past experience ye "Editor" knows that it wouldn't work.

Maybe in the near future, something along these lines could be brought about, and it is needless to say that this is a project that is long overdue, in taking place.

THE LETTER BOX

Have you ever thought of submitting a letter to the Letter Box, if you have, why has there not been more of them submitted?

The letter box, is open to everybody and is free to all, and aside from the idea that it helps to create interest in your local paper, it also helps to create interest in everyday questions.

In the editorial columns of any newspaper, it is the Editors ideas and views that are conveyed to the public. Right or wrong that is the purpose of an editorial.

Now if the general public does not express it's views, via the Letter to the Editor, the whole light on the question might not shown and unintentional harm might be done to some worthwhile subject or person.

In future if you feel that you would like to write a letter to the paper, do so by all means, but if you wish to use pseudonym all, well and good, but the letter must be signed by the author, strictly for our own records.

THE FREIGHT RATE QUESTION

There has been a lot said in the Edmonton papers, about the forthcoming appeal to be made by the railway companies, in connection with, raising the rates on freight shipped over their lines.

It will be a very sore spot, as far as the western people are concerned and the Editor feels that it should be.

Heaven forbid the raising of the rates now, and if anything, it is high time that a reduction, long overdue, was making an appearance.

A thing that strikes the Editor funny is the fact that it is cheaper to send a carload of goods to Vancouver than it is to ship it to Edmonton, or Calgary. (This information is from the Edmonton Journal).

Of course the railways are competing with ocean going cargoes, and as we all know, the cheapest way to ship any goods is by way of water.

However, why make the people in Alberta, the goats for a condition that is not their fault. Surely it is no sin to live in our great province of Alberta. Deducting from the attitude that the railway companies have taken in the past, and will continue to take in the future, unless steps are taken to remedy this, you would think so.

At the Dominion-Provincial conference that is coming up early in August, Premier Manning, as well as other premiers, of the two other prairie provinces, have agreed to press for a reduction in the freight rates to the three provinces.

This is an endeavor that we would all appreciate and should all give our whole-hearted support to.

It would not only mean a cheaper price on commodities shipped here, but as most of our manufactured goods, are made in the East, it would reduce the ultimate cost to us purchasers.

When you figure that pre-war, the cost of an Automobile was in the neighborhood of $1200.00, at Wainwright, it meant there was a portion of nearly $150.00 hidden in that price, as freight, and the seller had to do the unloading at this end.

So let us all hope that something can be done to decrease the cost of transportation, of goods that are shipped in from the east, so as to make a better standard of living for all of us in Alberta. We will have to wait and see just how the premiers make out next month. Here's Hoping!

SAVE SUGAR WITH THESE ORANGE DESSERTS

Is your sugar bowl low and do you need a dessert? The summer's bumper crop of small California Valencia oranges will help you solve this problem. This fruit is plentiful and unrationed. These oranges are as sweet and juicy as they are small. Dealers are offering good buys by the big bagful. And from such a big bagful you can solve your dessert problem with delicious dishes, such as the following.

Orange Waffle Harts Cake

Bake a waffle for each person to be served, using your favorite waffle recipe or waffle mix. Top with orange pieces and cover with a sauce made from orange juice sweetened with a little honey or corn syrup.

Use orange juice sweetened with honey or corn syrup over fruit short cakes of all kinds—strawberry, apricot, peach, banana. The orange juice makes the fruit go farther.

Orange Dessert Pancakes

Serve dollar-size pancakes with orange-honey sauce (one part orange juice and two parts honey). Or use corn syrup to sweeten orange juice for this sauce. This is a dessert that's quick to make and good to eat.

Orange Fruit Cup

Peel oranges and cut in pieces. Combine with other fresh fruits in season—berries, cherries, pears, melon balls, peaches, grapes. Flavor with a bit of lemon juice and a little honey or corn syrup. May be garnished and flavored with a mint sprig.

SOUP MILK CAN CREATE FLAVORFUL SUMMER FOODS
When primitive man first built a fire or used a spring water to cool his food he entered upon the adventure of harnessing heat and cold and he has toiled continuously ever since to attain command of them. The fact that spoilage in the heat of summer is still a cause of much food waste indicates that this old, old problem has not yet been completely solved.

There is one form of food an asset rather than a liability. That is the souring of milk. Everyone knows the light, tender texture sour milk gives to biscuits, gingerbread and chocolate cake. The Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture gives directions of substituting sour milk for sweet and recipes for its use.

To substitute for sweet milk in a recipe, use the same amount of sour milk and for each cup substitute 2 teaspoons of baking powder and add 1/4 teaspoon of baking soda to the dry ingredients.

If milk is only lightly sour allow it to thicken at room temperature before using—flavour and texture are improved if a soft curd has formed. Beat milk before adding to recipe.

If a large quantity of milk turns sour, it may be used for cottage cheese saving the whey for a refreshing summer drink. Add the juice of one lemon to the whey from 1 quart of milk sweeten to taste, chill and serve.

Cottage Cheese

1 qt. sour milk whole or skim.
1/4 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Cream

Use only freshly soured clean-flavoured milk. Put the sour milk over hot water and heat until milk separates into curds and whey. Separation takes place when the milk reaches a temperature of 100 F to 110 F.

The milk should be stirred occasionally while it is heating. Spread cheese cloth over a large strainer and drain the curd on it. When the whey has drained off, rinse the curd by pouring cold water over it. Put the well-drained curd in a bowl break-up with a fork season with salt and pepper and moisten with cream. Keep cold until used. Makes about one cup.

Cucumber Cheese Jelly

1 tablespoon gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups cottage cheese
1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped cucumber
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup mayonnaise
Soak gelatin in cold water 5 minutes; place over boiling water until dissolved. Mix cottage cheese, cucumber, onion and salt. Stir gelatin into mayonnaise combine with other ingredients pour into a mould rinsed with cold water. Chill until firm. Six servings.

FIRE, FIRE!

The sound of the fire engines tearing through the streets of Ottawa awoke me the other night and as always I had to run to the window to see if the blaze was on our street. I suppose there is in all our minds a hold-over from the time when we used to love to race to a fire just because it was a thrilling spectacle.

Out on the farm fire takes on much more alarming proportions. After all on a farm you're isolated. You can't run to the phone and have a fire department racing to your home in the matter of minutes.

That's why the word "fire" must have an ominous meaning to farmers.

I notice that a recent study of farm fires indicates that there are at least 18 common causes for fires in the rural areas. Didn't somebody tell us 18 was an unlucky number.

They are: chimneys of sub-standard construction; sparks from dirty chimneys; smoke pipes and stoves in stalled without regard to radiation of heat; seasonal grass and brush fires spontaneous ignition of hay through dumping badly cured hay; worn-out shingle roofs; lighted lanterns; misuse of electrical equipment; threatening operations with gasoline power; gasoline vehicles stored in barns; matches and smoking in out-buildings; trespass by thieves; and lightning.

The recommendations for fire prevention on the farm call for having a roof ladder always at hand. It is also suggested that the farmer keep a few water buckets full and ready for use. Also it is a good idea to have a few barrels of water on hand for instant use. Keep at least one standard two and one-half gallon soda-acid fire extinguisher on the premises.

Farm Women's Co-Operative

The thought of home-cooked farm food causes the months of city people to water. Home-made baked beans, apple pies, chickens fresh vegetables sausage meat, preserves . . . well!

The women of Montgomery County Maryland in the United States have been running a successful co-operative business to sell just these, and other things. When they started 13 years ago their income was $5,000 a year. Now they have a $275,000 a year business and it is still growing. The women have their market at Bethesda which is about a mile north of the District of Columbia line. The market attracts shoppers from Washington and suburbs all eager to buy the delicious home-cooked food.

The farm ladies recently made the final payment on a $50,000 mortgage and they have used their own profits to install new kitchen equipment get their children educated and any number of other things.

The women take pride in maintaining a high standard in the products they sell and all recipes are inspected and any changes must be approved.

They started their project in a vacant store on the main street of Bethesda and now they have their own beautiful building.

Quite a success story, isn't it?

HEALTH

A HEALTH SERVICE OF THE CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES IN CANADA

SUMMER "GREMLINS"

CAN RUIN HOLIDAY

In a warning to summer vacationists, the Health League of Canada advises there are many common summer hazards, which could be termed "Summer Gremlins," and which too often are forgotten or overlooked.

The League's Industrial Division, in one of its payroll pamphlet inserts, admonishes:

"Enjoy yourself this summer. But watch what you're about! The 'Gremlins' sure will get you if you don't watch out!"

Stating that vacation-time should be a period of relaxation, recuperation and restoration, the League advises vacationists to take it easy—enjoy the warm days—but watch out for "Summer Gremlins"—a name that could be applied to the common hazards that all too frequently rob them of needed pleasure and change.

For instance, sunshine, taken in proper doses, improves health. Sun baths should be brief at first—just 10 minutes the first day, 15 the second and so on. Remember, it takes 16 days to safely sun-tan a child. Burns should be treated like burns from any other source.

Steer clear of the plant with three shiny dark green leaves—poison ivy. Those who become exposed should lather their bodies with good soap suds, rinse and repeat. This washes away the oil, forestalling or minimizing irritation. Soothing, protective lotions and hot compresses are standard treatment.

Chances should not be taken with impure water or with unpasteurized milk. Impure water should be brought to a boil before it is used or it can be purified by chlorination.

Milk can be pasteurized by the following home method advocated by Miss Margaret Smith, Health League Nutritionist:

First, the home pasteurizer should obtain a heavy aluminum container with faucet attached about two inches from the bottom. Also needed is a removable metal rack which should clear the bottom of the container by about 1 1/2 inches. The container should be deeper than quart bottles which can be used to hold the milk. An armoured thermometer also is needed.

The filled bottles of milk, with the thermometer inserted through the cap of one bottle, are placed on the rack in the container, in cold water about 1 inch from their tops. Heat is applied and when the thermometer reaches 143°F, the heat is reduced so that the reading remains between 142° and 145° for 30 minutes. All virulent disease germs will then have been killed.

If ice is available, the water should be drawn off, a little at a time, and the ice added, until the reading is 45°.

"HARDWARE DISEASE"

COMMON IN CATTLE

Besides the danger of poisoning of cattle through old bones being left around pastures and live stock lots, there is another disease which occurs almost entirely in cattle as a result of untidy surroundings. This is known as "Hardware disease" and is occasioned by the common habit of cattle eating nails, staples, pieces of wire, and other sharp metal objects which they find in pastures and elsewhere around the farm. This assorted hardware often penetrates vital organs sometimes with fatal effect.

Though not contagious in the usual sense of the word, "Hardware disease" is transmitted through carelessness, according to many veterinarians. They state also that in dairy cattle the losses from "Hardware disease" exceed those from any one contagious disease. Prevention consists in keeping pastures, feedlots, fence corners, and all other parts of the premises free from small pieces of sharp metal, nails and other pieces of hardware that might cause injury to cattle or other stock.

Rationing helps the FARMER

HERE'S HOW!

- Rationing assures everyone a fair share of scarce foods. Without rationing, farmers might get all the butter they need; they might not get sugar. City dwellers might get sugar but no butter.
- Rationing helps to keep prices steady.
- Rationing has assured farmers sufficient ammunition to protect their crops and livestock.
- Rationing makes it possible for farmers to get coupons to feed harvesters and other transient farm workers.

The FARMER helps Rationing
HERE'S HOW!

- By collecting and turning in the coupons acquired against the use and sale of butter and the sale of honey and rationed maple products.
- By writing to the Local Ration Boards for application form RB-77 as SOON as they know definitely that transient labour rations will be needed to feed extra help hired for periods of less than two weeks.

Rationing is not intended to add unnecessarily to the burden of Canadian farmers who, faced with shortages of labour, materials and machinery, have continued to respond to repeated calls for greater production.

It is a protection against waste . . . shortages . . . inflation.

BRING BEE SWARMS

BACK TO HIVE

If a swarm of bees is allowed to abscond, the honey crop of that colony is also lost, is the timely reminder given to Canadian beekeepers by the Dominion Apiarist, C. B. Gooderham. In the handling of natural swarms of bees, he says, if the queen's wings are clipped, she will be unable to accompany the swarm when it issues but will be found on the ground near the entrance of the hive. She should be caught and placed in a small cage or box, and while the swarm is still in the air, the old hive should be moved to one side and a new one, containing drawn comb or full sheets of foundation, put in its place. The cage containing the queen is placed at the entrance of the new hive, and as soon as the swarm returns, she is released. A queen excluder is then placed over the new hive and the supers from the old hive set over it.

The parent hive may either be placed on a new stand at once, or allowed to stand alongside the new hive for a week and then moved. The latter is the better way because it adds to the strength of the swarm. All cells should be destroyed in the parent colony immediately after the swarm has issued to prevent after-swarming, and a young queen installed. Those who do not care to clip the queen's wings, may follow the same procedure of moving the old hive, and, after capturing the swarm, housing it in a new hive on the old stand. If desirable, the parent colony may be broken up into nuclei and each part given a new queen.

Boys and girls are great believers in hero worship. Sports idols abound in the hearts and minds of kiddies everywhere. The war brought forth other idols—the big brother in uniform, or daddy, or a great general.

Youthful listeners to a new program broadcast daily over C.J.C.A. now have another idol. She is known over the airwaves as Pat, the Playmates' Pal. She rallies the children around her, via radio, and tells them a story—tells them about some of the kiddies' activities around town—the Gyro Playgrounds—the children's room in the City Library, etc. And to top it all she presents one or two youthful vocal artists on each program.

A city dairy, a Service Club, and the Public Library are jointly interested in the program.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

By H. G. L. Strange.

TESTING THE FARMER'S SEED

The Crop Testing Plan has started on its fifteenth year of work or testing thousands of samples of farmers' grains which have been used for seeding the current crop.

These samples have been seeded at dozens of points throughout the Prairies, and when the heads appear, competent Plant Breeders and Cerealists will analyze them to determine the variety, and to note the admixture of other and often undesirable varieties which tend, of course, to degrade the crop both for yield and quality.

The analysis of the growing crop is necessary because few varieties can be identified really accurately in the kernel, but can be identified by the characteristics of the head.

Each individual farmer will be notified as to the results of the test so that he will be able to determine whether this coming Fall and Winter he should secure some better seed which to improve the yield and quality of his crop.

Key Men For Reconstruction

As the machinery for transforming soldier to civilian speeds up there is an increasing need for key men. These key men are the exception which proves the rule of a "first-in-first-out" policy in regard to discharge of Canadian service men and women.

Broadly speaking, the crux of the key personnel matter is this: It is necessary to get men out of the army in order to prepare work for other men to do.

At the present time, and increasingly in the months to come, there are problems in regard to re-allocation of manpower as men return from overseas. It has been anticipated that it will take a matter of 18 months to repatriate all of these overseas personnel. To relatives who are anxiously awaiting the return of these servicemen, 18 months may seem a long time. But turning men from war to peace is a subject that takes time—it also needs experts.

All over the country there are business firms, factories and industrial plants which are short of manpower, and which will welcome with open arms certain trained workers. But if these firms are going to expand, they need men to assist in drawing up the plans to keep supervisory positions filled. There is also a need for scientists and educationists at the present time.

The change-over from war to peacetime production in many industries is also seeing the need for alterations in plant and machinery and a large volume of new construction.

This programme, it has been stated, is expected to make a heavy demand on the country's labor resources, and will ultimately provide new employment for many.

And this is why the government is facilitating the release of certain key men so that their services will be available in preparing for reconstruction.

The thing that will govern these key men and the thing that will bring them out of the army into civilian life ahead of some of their comrades is their essentiality in the work of reconstruction, and also in the effective prosecution of the war.

Here is how the machinery for the release of these key men works. An industrial selection and release board has been established at Ottawa. This board operates under the chairmanship of the Department of Labour, Industrial Selection and Release Committees consisting of representatives of the Defence Departments of Labour and Reconstruction have been set up at Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, London, Toronto, Kingston, Montreal, Quebec, Saint John and Halifax.

If an employer requires the services of a key worker he is required to make application to his local committee. This committee will go over the case, and recommend on its merits. The recommendation will be passed to the board at Ottawa and the board in turn will forward the application to the services with the board's decision. If the branch of the forces in which the man is serving can spare the man, he will be released.

When it comes to the release of such needed key personnel, the man affected must agree. If he decides he wishes to go, his release will be carried out by actual discharge, or by granting leave subject to recall. The procedure applies to men either overseas or in Canada whose discharge will be taking place in due course.

The release of key personnel will not be on a wholesale basis. It will be very limited in number, and it will be limited to men and women who are deemed absolutely essential to the job of gearing Canada's economy to the task of putting into jobs the men and women who have served their country overseas, and who now want to adjust themselves to civilian life.

Branches in Demand Services at A.M.A.

Popularity of the services given at branches of the Alberta Motor Association in Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge has been demonstrated more forcefully than ever in recent months. With the end of the war in Europe people are looking into the future possibilities of motor travel. They desire information on travel routes, beauty spots and vacation facilities. A.M.A. offices have handled thousands of these inquiries. A large number have come from the U.S., where it is claimed that when the war is over more than 85 percent will want to travel, according to recent surveys. For Alberta people, the offices also prove to be growing in popularity as they contain a wealth of valuable information. Routings also are provided while the A.M.A. maintains services needed by motorists.

Labor Department Booklet Rehabilitation

The booklet, "Dismias — But What of a Job?", has been prepared to show the facilities afforded through the Dominion Department of Labor, in connection with rehabilitation of ex-servicemen and women. Also, the book contains a brief outline of the main legislative changes in wartime from the Dominion viewpoint affecting the conditions of employment in industry. The book will be provided to vocational and educational advisers in the Armed Services, officers of the Department of Veterans Affairs and Labor (including the National Employment Service) members of committees interested in rehabilitation, larger employers and trade unions, and others.

MANY DEATHS BY DROWNING SAID TO BE NEEDLESS

With the summer vacation season upon us, the Health League of Canada points out that many deaths from drowning can be prevented—first by running no unnecessary risks and second by the prompt and long-continued use of artificial respiration methods when accidents occur.

Several years ago there was an intense agitation for more care in rescue efforts, it being stated that victims died because artificial respiration was discontinued too soon. They died because all necessary efforts were not made to revive them—because the possibilities of artificial respiration still were not fully realized.

There are well-authenticated reports of artificial respiration being successful after as many as five hours. In cases of electrical shock, at least one instance is known of a patient being revived after being apparently dead for eight hours. This being true, it is an extraordinary thing that reports still come in of artificial respiration being discontinued after a mere half hour of effort. It is pointed out that even if the victim has been in the water for as long as 30 minutes, there is a chance that life is not extinct—that proper resuscitation methods have a chance of bringing back consciousness.

Also, it is emphasized, artificial respiration must be started as quickly as possible and continued for a long period—six hours or longer. It is not until rigor mortis sets in that life can be assumed to be extinct. One of the most documented cases of late revival is that of a child, brought back to life after five hours' active work and hours after the child had been pronounced dead.

It is also important that those using artificial respiration be sure that air enters the lungs properly while they are working on the patient. There is always a possibility that a spasm of the larynx occurred and that the victim suffocated rather than drowned.

The most popular method of artificial respiration is the Schaefer method. In this, the body is raised gently by the waist to allow water to drain from the lungs and stomach. It is then placed in a prone position with the head and chest lower than the rest, if possible. The head should be placed on one side on one of the patient's arms. The rescuer kneels astride the victim and applies pressure rhythmically in the region of the lungs. If possible, the patient should be kept warm with blankets and hot water bottles.

Rescuers should remember these five points:
1. Clear the patient quickly.
2. Start artificial respiration without delay.
3. Use warmth if possible.
4. Do not stop artificial respiration until the patient breathes or there are definite signs of the onset of rigor mortis.
5. After the patient is breathing do not allow him to sit up, stand, or walk, but transport him in a lying down position and put him to bed.

At V-E Day, German prisoners in Canada included 2,318 officers, 28,131 other ranks and 3,227 merchant seamen. In the group were 4 generals.

Since you don't learn much listening to yourself it pays to let others do a little of the talking.

MEN FOR HOME BUILDING MUST BE SECURED

Home building is highly essential to overcome pressing housing shortages, and to provide dwellings for the Forces as discharged.

Shortages of workmen for building homes and for producing the building materials are threatening to impede Canada's program for the construction of 50,000 homes as soon as possible.

All men experienced in home building or in producing building materials, who are not now working in either of these industries, are urged to apply to the nearest office of the National Employment Service immediately.

Men experienced at home building or producing supplies, if now in other essential work, will be given permits to work at jobs which will assist the home building program.

All men, not now at home building nor producing supplies, who can fill a job in this program, are urged to answer this call.

Apply at once at the nearest office of the National Employment Service.
